

"The Kitty Genovese Memorial Conference: 50 years later"

March 8-9, 2014, Fordham University, 113 West 60 Street, NYC

This public forum remembers the tragedy in New York on March 13, 1964, when young Kitty was murdered near her home while many witnesses said they "just did not want to get involved." In this forum scholars, authors, activists, and others in the community will: review and celebrate the life of Ms. Genovese, try to better understand the oft-repeated "Kitty Genovese phenomenon," and review the many impacts of this 1964 tragedy on western society. Speakers include the authors of four new books and a film about Ms. Genovese. On Sunday, a mass will precede remembrances, and a meet-the-authors panel, where the authors and a film producer speak on why and how they did their work.

All who knew Catherine "Kitty" Genovese (1935-1964) are invited to share their remembrances: family, friends, classmates, neighbors, and others.
