RESEARCH EXPERIENCE

Undergraduate Research Assistant Detroit, MI

Goal Systems & Delay Discounting

Winter 2014 - Present

Advisor: Kopetz, Catalina, Ph. D.

- We are studying the effects of motivations on discounting of goal-relevant and goal-irrelevant rewards. We are also studying procrastination as a moderator for delay discounting. I currently assist with research design and preparing our current study for proposal to the IRB. When the study is active I will be carrying out the experiments in the laboratory, managing data entry, and assisting with data analysis.

Diversity & Work-Family Relations.

Advisor: Baltes, Boris, Ph. D.

- We studied the effectiveness of the SOC (Selection, Optimization, and Compensation) with relation to how employees handle work-family conflict. I assisted with a study that will test to see if using a Structured Free Recall Intervention (SFRI) will reduce halo error in performance appraisals.
